

Tutorial for Using Camstudio with Glogster

Use Camstudio to add VoiceThreads, Voki, Blabberizes, Animotos and many other tools to your Glogster page. Camstudio is free streaming video software that allows you to record screen and audio activity on your computer. It enables you to create AVI video files.

Step by Step Guide:

Download Camstudio to your desktop from their webpage at www.camstudio.com.

Once Camstudio has downloaded you will see the icon on your desktop. Open it up and you will see the recording software.

Before recording, you need to click on options and be sure record audio from Microphone is checked.

Then, choose video options. Make sure the quality is set to 100 by sliding the tab to the right. This gives you better video quality when you are finished.

To set the area you want to record click on Region then choose Fixed region. A pop up box will appear. Click on Select, your curser will turn into a 'plus sign'. Use the '+' to drag over the area you want to record into a video. When you are finished click 'OK'

Now you are ready to record. Click the red circle to record. You'll see the square appear drag it over the area that you chose. When you are finished click the blue square to stop.

A pop-up window will appear which prompts you to save your video. Be sure to save it in a file that you will be able to remember and access later, such as your 'H: drive'. It will be saved as an AVI file which can easily be uploaded to Glogster.
